DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fan et al hereinafter Fan (US 5,815,126) in view of Saikawa et al hereinafter Saikawa (US 5,986,813).

4. As to claim 1, Fan teaches a head mounted display (HMD) apparatus 1 which includes front section 15 (front frame), side frame 32 L and 32 R, the hinge 31 L and 31 R, Attached to each side of the head mounted display body 12 is a stem 30 through a respective forward hinge 31. Each stem contains a forward stem section 32, which is coupled to the forward hinge 31 at the proximal end. In a particular preferred embodiment, the forward stem section 32 contains a rear hinge 33 at the distal end and an earphone storage compartment 37 into which earphones 40 are stowed when the stems are folded (see col. 6, lines 54-61). Therefore, Fan teaches all of the claimed limitation of claim 1, except for "said head mounted display apparatus being capable of being mounted and held on the head of user with an elastic force generated by spreading said side frame." However, Saikawa teaches a related HMD 1 which includes frame section 1b to the body section 1a to a side head section behind an ear and including a plate spring being an elastic member and others to serve as a supporting section and a side head pressing section (see col. 6, lines 15-18). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include the additional elastic member taught by Saikawa in the HDM of Fan's system because this would allow user to wear the HDM more comfortable and light weight (see col. 3, lines 16-18 of Saikawa).

5. As to claim 2, Fan teaches an earphone storage compartment 37 into which earphones 40 are stowed when the stems are folded (see col. 6, lines 59-61).
6. As to claim 3, Fan teaches inherently the compartment 37 which hold a cable 320 connected to display channel part (see col. 7, lines 47-67).
7. As to claim 4, Fan teaches FIG. 6 is a top plan view of the head mounted display 1 in the folded configuration. In particular, note that the nose bridge assembly 24 has been positioned into the retracted position for storage. In the retracted position, the nose bridge assembly 24 does not interfere with the folding of the stems 30. The hinge points 39 on the forward joints 31 are spring tensioned to facilitate head rotation (see col. 9, lines 56-62).

8. Claims 5 and 6 are allowed.

9. Claims 7-10 are allowed.

10. Claims 1-4 are also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Suzuki (US 5,880,773) in view of Saikawa et al hereinafter Saikawa (US 5,986,813).

As to claim 1, Suzuki teaches, referring to Fig. 1, a HMD 1 which includes a housing 5 (front frame), the side cases 6 and 7 (side frame), the earphone 9 attached to the side cases 6 and 7 (see col. 3, line 10). Therefore, Suzuki teaches all of the claimed limitations of claim 1, except for "said head mounted display apparatus being capable of being mounted and held on the head of user with an elastic force generated by spreading said side frame." However, Saikawa teaches a related HMD 1 which includes frame section 1b to the body section 1a to a side head section behind an ear and including a plate spring being an elastic member and others to serve as a supporting section and a side head pressing section (see col. 6, lines 15-18). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include the auxiliary support elastic member taught by Saikawa in the HMD of Suzuki's system because this would allow user to wear the HDM more comfortable and light weight.

Conclusion
